

ABOUT TODD SANDERS

Texas native Todd Sanders fell in love with vintage neon signage during a road trip through Austin while studying graphic design in college. He moved there in the early '90s to pursue his craft, apprenticing to sign-makers for several years before starting his own business. Sanders segued to fine art full time in 2007, designing and crafting vintage-inspired, yet completely original neon pop art. His work, which pays homage to America's past while incorporating elements of modern-day pop culture, is a favorite of collectors and fellow artists from Johnny Depp to Shepard Fairey, and has graced major films, album covers and magazines.
